I used linear repression to graph the line of the Binary search.

Based on my data and my graph, when size of the input is less than 5, linear search is more efficient.

When size of the input is equal to 5, they have the same performance.

When size of the input is great than or equal to 6, binary search is more efficient.